Client Brief

DeepBox Digital Solutions is seeking a full website design and development project tailored to their emerging brand within the AI-driven data storage sector. The client currently operates with limited web presence and desires a modern, visually compelling website that will serve as their primary digital touchpoint. Specific requirements include a homepage that succinctly communicates DeepBox's value proposition, service pages that highlight their advanced AI storage features, and a contact form for prospective clients. Additionally, the client needs seamless integration with their existing CRM, as well as clear calls-to-action that drive demo signups. The website should employ accessible web standards, mobile-responsive design, and quick loading times to accommodate a diverse audience. DeepBox is also interested in content consultancy to ensure that their core messaging resonates with both technical leads and executive stakeholders. Design inspiration should draw on clean geometric layouts, high-tech iconography, and a color palette that conveys trust and innovation. SEO best practices should be integrated from the start, with metadata and schema markups for improved search visibility. The project will involve regular client feedback sessions and a post-launch support phase for any minor adjustments and training. The ultimate goal is to position DeepBox as a cutting-edge, trustworthy solution in the cloud data storage market, elevating their credibility and enabling scalable lead generation through an engaging, intuitive digital experience.
